

MISSION OF THE HEALTH DEPARTMENT

To contribute to the development, dissemination, and application of knowledge and to the training of professionals and researchers in the field of nutrition, through the development of educational programs, research projects and services to health, social development and nutrition institutions, with excellence, and national and international impact, aimed at the achievement of a more just, inclusive, productive and peaceful society.

MISSION OF THE BACHELOR'S DEGREE IN NUTRITION AND FOOD SCIENCE

To train nutritionists who perform professional activities with excellence, relevance and environmental awareness, to offer solutions to the problems of nutrition, feeding and food science present in the country, under the humanistic principles of Universidad Iberoamericana.

GOALS AND OBJECTIVES OF THE BACHELOR'S DEGREE IN NUTRITION AND FOOD SCIENCE

Goal 1

To train graduates who affect, from the professional scope, the dietary and nutritional condition of the individuals and groups with which they work.

Objectives

1. 80 % of the students will complete the Bachelor program in no more than 6 years (ideally, in 4 years and 6 months)
2. 70 % of the graduates practice the profession in the area of nutrition and food science within 12 months post-graduation
3. 70 % of the licensed graduates receive their professional license within the first year post-graduation
4. 70 % of the employers are satisfied with the performance of the graduates
5. 30% of the graduates start their graduate studies at 12 months of graduation

Goal 2

Train graduates who are aware of the environment of the individual or groups with which they work, based on humanistic principles.

Objectives

1. 85% of the graduates are satisfied with the social and ethical training they received
2. 80 % of the graduates apply the humanistic principles in their daily professional practice
3. 95 % of the graduates work respecting the diversity of individuals and populations
4. 60% of the graduates promotes socio-environmental sustainability in the professional field